* The individual number of animal has 14 characters (2 text characters - country code and 12 digits), but in this section of a passport it is displayed as it is printed on the eartag (without zeroes between country code and the rest digits). These zeroes complete the individual number of animal in order to have 14 characters.

For example:

The individual number of animal displayed in a passport is SK800240519.

This individual number of animal is SK000800240519.

Printed bar code in a passport has all 14 characters of the individual animal number.

A big letter 'P' or 'R' ('R' is with roman digits: R-I, R-II, ...) could be printed at the top of a passport.

'P' is a designation of a passport, which is a continuation of the previous original passport. This continuation is for next veterinary services, records of the animal movements or records of the changes of animal keeper.

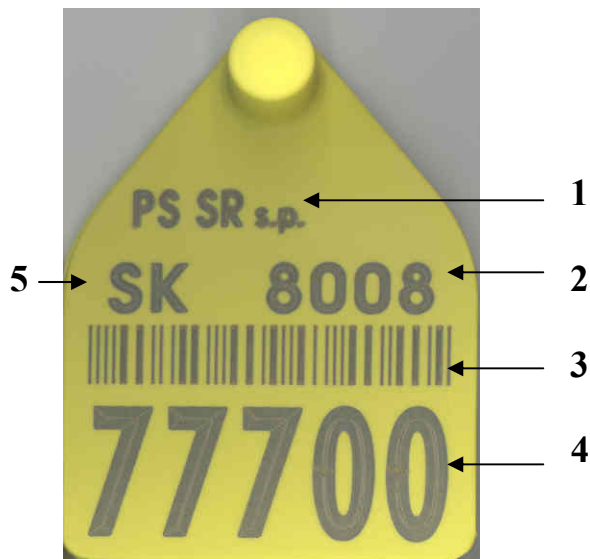

R (R-I, R-II, R-III, ...) is a designation of a passport, which is a duplicate of the original passport. The roman number means which duplicate it is in order (first duplicate, second, third, ...). A duplicate of a passport is issued when the original passport was lost or destroyed, when not exists.
